in association with

GLOBAL TRAINING PARTNER OF CHOICE

TO ENHANCE SAFETY,
EFFICIENCY AND READINESS.

CAE is a world-class training systems integrator that offers comprehensive training centres, training services and simulation products across the air, land, naval, public safety and healthcare domains.

No where is our experience, expertise and technology leadership more evident than in the comprehensive flight training solutions we offer. CAE designs and delivers more civil and military aviation training solutions than any other organisation worldwide. With training facilities in 35 countries, more than 8,000 dedicated employees, and world-leading simulation technologies developed over almost 70 years, we train more than 120,000 civil and military crew members each year.

Count on us to help enhance your safety, efficiency and mission readiness.

*Formerly Eurocopter Group, Airbus Helicopters is the helicopter manufacturing division of Airbus Group. In line with the company's new identity, Airbus Helicopters has renamed its product range, replacing the former "EC" designation with an "H" (for example: EC145 is now called H145M)

Please note that different militaries around the world use various names for a full-mission simulator. Some of these include operational flight trainer (OFT), dynamic mission simulator (DMS), combat mission simulator (CMS), weapon systems trainer (WST), or full-flight and mission simulator (FFMS). For example, the US Air Force refers to all of their full-mission simulators as "WSTs" regardless if the aircraft platform carries weapons or not, while the US Army uses the term CMS, and the Australian Defence Forces use the term FFMS.

ANALYSIS

There are currently just over 2,300 military aircraft simulation devices in operation globally, according to the latest data from FlightGlobal. This figure represents a 3% increase on the total for the same period in 2015.

CAE leads all suppliers, with a 22% market share, followed by L-3 Link & Simulation, with 18%. Flight Safety International and Thales both have shares of 11% and Boeing has 10%; the balance of the military devices are provided by other manufacturers.

More than half – 54% – of the world’s military aircraft simulators are based in the USA, which operates close to 1,250 devices. Globally, Lockheed Martin and Boeing types represent 22% and 20%, respectively, of all simulated aircraft.

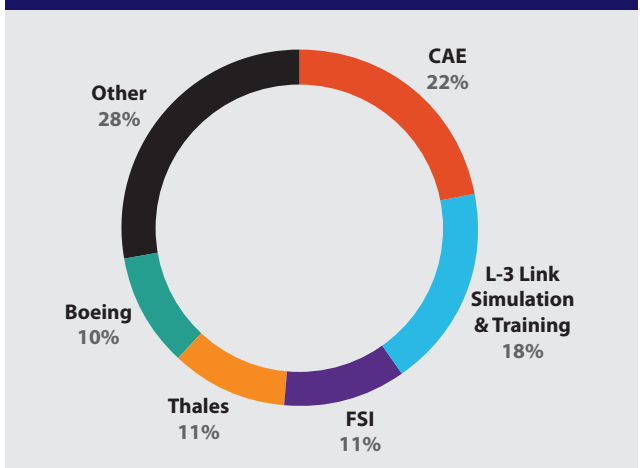

Flight Safety International shipped 12 devices to the US Army between January and September 2016, including 10 Airbus Helicopters UH-72 and two Sikorsky UH-60M simulators. The company has also delivered a single static flight training device for Bell Helicopter AH-1Z attack helicopters to the US Marine Corps.

CAE has provided a total of 11 simulators to various clients globally since January. During 2016, the Canadian manufacturer announced a series of contracts to provide a range of training services and simulation product upgrades for global military customers. These include the contract awarded by the Canadian Department of National Defence to CAE to perform maintenance and support services on flight simulators at various Canadian Forces bases. It was also contracted to upgrade two Boeing CH-47 Chinook dynamic mission simulators at CAE’s Medium Support Helicopter Aircrew Training Facility at RAF Benson in the UK, while Boeing awarded a contract to CAE to provide concurrency upgrades on US Navy P-8A flight trainers.

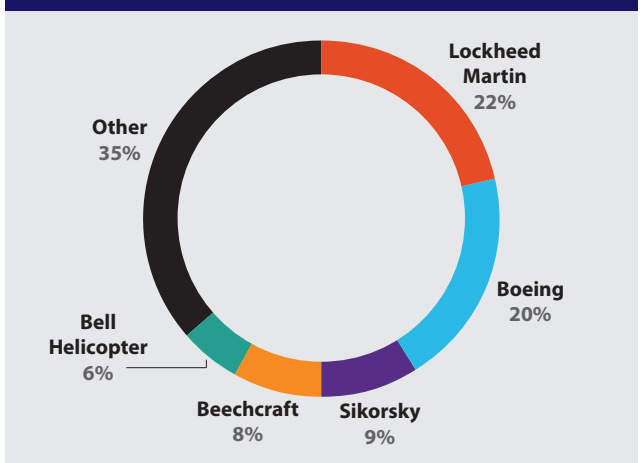

L-3 Link Simulation & Training announced early in 2016 that it had been awarded a contract option from the US Air Force to build 34 new Predator Mission Aircrew Training System simulators. The contract was awarded by the US Air Force’s Life Cycle Management Center at Wright-Patterson AFB. Later in the year, L-3 Link announced that two CH-47F operational flight trainers installed at the US Army’s Warrior Hall facility had been released for training.

Other market activity during the year included the Indonesian Air Force delivery of a CAE-built Lockheed Martin C-130H full-mission simulator that was previously in service with the Royal Australian Air Force. In Norway, Airbus Helicopters designated CAE’s Oslo helicopter training centre an Airbus Helicopters Approved Simulation Centre for H225 recurrent training. The CAE Simulation Centre, adjacent to Oslo’s Gardermoen Airport, offers some military operating profiles.

CAE is a global leader in training for the defence and security, civil aviation, and healthcare markets. Backed by a 70-year record of industry firsts, CAE continues to help define global training standards with its innovative virtual-to-live training solutions to make flying safer, maintain defence force readiness and enhance patient safety. CAE has the broadest global presence in the industry, with 8,000 employees, 160 sites and training locations in over 35 countries. Each year, CAE trains more than 120,000 civil and defense crewmembers and thousands of healthcare professionals worldwide.

CAE's Defence & Security business unit focuses on helping prepare its customers to develop and maintain the highest levels of mission readiness. CAE is a world-class training systems integrator offering a comprehensive portfolio of training centres, training services and simulation products across the air, land, naval and public safety market segments. The company serves its global defence and security customers through regional operations in Canada; the United States/Latin America; Europe/Middle East/Africa; and Asia/Pacific, all of which leverage the full breadth of CAE's capabilities, technologies and solutions.

As a training systems integrator, CAE offers governments, defence forces and original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) a comprehensive range of innovative training solutions designed to cost-effectively meet specific training and readiness requirements. CAE is flexible and has a wealth of experience operating and delivering training services across different business models, including government-owned, government-operated (GOGO); government-owned, contractor-operated (GOCO); or contractor-owned, contractor-operated (COCO) training facilities. CAE's offerings include training needs analysis, instructional systems design, learning management information systems, purpose-built facilities, state-of-the-art synthetic training equipment, curriculum and courseware development, classroom and simulator instruction, maintenance and logistics support, lifecycle support and technology insertion, and financing alternatives.

CAE has been focused on enhancing its core capabilities as a training systems integrator by expanding its live-virtual-constructive (LVC) offering into support for live flying training of future military pilots. For example, CAE is constructing a new company-owned and operated training center in Dothan, which is near Fort Rucker, Alabama and the U.S. Army's Aviation Center of Excellence (USAACE) at Fort Rucker. CAE's Dothan Training Center will support Army Fixed-Wing Flight Training and will include live-flying training provided by CAE along with classroom and simulator training. CAE is also the prime contractor responsible for the NATO Flying Training in Canada (NFTC) program that produces qualified military pilots for Canada and other defense customers.

CAE offers the industry's most comprehensive range of simulation products and training services related to aircrew training. CAE's simulation product portfolio ranges from desktop trainers to the highest fidelity full-mission simulators. The company is a recognized leader in developing simulators and training systems for transports, tankers, maritime patrol aircraft, lead-in fighter trainers, and combat aircraft.

WHO IS THE WORLD'S LEADING TRAINING SYSTEMS INTEGRATOR?

We are.

With almost 70 years in training, CAE has more experience as a simulation technology leader and training systems integrator than any other company. We partner with our customers in the air, naval and land domains to help define, develop and operate their integrated training facilities. No company is more capable or experienced at providing full-spectrum solutions across the training enterprise — from individual and crew training, right through to collective, networked, and distributed mission training. You can trust CAE to help you cost-effectively enhance safety, efficiency and readiness.
